COAL PRODUCTION OF 21ST DISTRICT SURPASSES THAT OF PREVIOUS YEAR

Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham Makes Report Concerning Twelve Months Period Just Ended--Washington County Drops From First to Second Place, Fayette Securing From it the Banner Position

IMPROVEMENT IN MINES BETTERING CONDITIONS GREATER THAN AT ANY TIME BEFORE IN VALLEY

Production of coal in the 21st Bituminous district exceeded that of the former year by 620,222 tons according to the report for the past year given the Mail today by Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham of Charleroi. The production would have been very much reater had it not been for the low water in the river during the latter part of the year which prevented a large number of the mines being operated, as the river is the only means of shipping their product; also the suspension during the month of April, pending the adjustment of the miner's scale for the next two years, is partly responsible for reducing the output of the mines.

Washington county dropped from first place in this district. While it gained 33,883 tons over the year 1909, Fayette county gained 389,779 tons over the former year and now holds first place with Washington second. Westmoreland gained 196,560 tons over the former year or about 33 per cent, with Fayette county with 11 per cent and Washington with about 1 per cent gain. Of the three largest coal companies in the district, the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Co. gained 244,015 tons, or about 7 per cent. The Pittsburgh Coal Co. gained 260,197 tons or 20.7 per cent. The Vesta Coal Co., lost 144,869 tons or about 6 per cent.

The improvement in the mines during the last year towards effecting safer and better sanitary conditions was greater than has ever been in the mines along the river, such as sinking additional air shafts and other openings to the surface, making additional air courses, traveling ways, shelter holes along the haulage ways and making additional space between the cars and rib along the haulage roads, also cleaning the refuse, dirt, rock, slate and timber, that had accumulated along the side of the haulage roads. Ventilating fans of greater capacity have been installed, wooden stoppings between the air courses have been replaced by permanent masonry ones, overcasts have been built in order to eliminate the use of doors, affording a better system of ventilation. Safety lamps have been introduced on pillar work, affording a greater degree of safety from sudden inflows of explosive gas, and numerous other improvements have been made.

The number of fatal accidents increased over the number of last year in view of the fact there were stricter regulations enforced in the mine than ever before. It seems to be almost impossible to prevent the Chance Taker from taking chances on his life. It would require an official to be present in every working place to try and prevent some workmen for taking these chances. As a result of investigations of fatal accidents it appears that these chances are taken in order to get out of doing a little extra work to avoid the risks he is subject to in his class of work, or in other words it may be used as greediness, as the more coal he loads the larger are his returns. It is common to hear a miner say, Just as soon as I load this car of coal I will put up a post under the slate. The fact is very often he never finishes loading the car. Familiarity of danger breeds contempt, and in this way he neglects his safety, and it is not because he is not aware of the dangers, however. There are some accidents that the blame is not altogether on the victim. A co-employee, and official are sometimes to blame and again the victim has taken all reasonable precautions to prevent being killed or injured and these can be classed as unavoidable. These remarks relate principally to our two greatest causes of accidents, viz: Falls of coal, roof and slate and from mine cars.

Rigid discipline by the mine management and a sufficient number of officials to efficiently supervise and see to it, that the regulations prescribed for each class of workmen is carried out in the strictest manner possible and a uniform system of posting the roof and draw slate will add materially to decrease their number of accidents from the above causes.

COLORADO OFFICERS COMING TO CLAIM MAN ARRESTED ON BLACK HAND CHARGE

Jack Mascarello Held by Local Justice On Charge of Being Fugitive From Justice Pending Arrival of Pueblo Sheriff--Claimed to be Much Wanted Man in Far Western City

ALLEGED VICTIM WHO TRACED MAN PREPARES TO RETURN FOR THE APPROACHING HEARING

On a charge of being a fugitive from justice Jack Mascarello, the Italian arrested in connection with a Black Hand outrage at Pueblo, Colo., last March was held by Justice of the Peace E. E. Rice this morning. This was in order to hold him until the arrival of an officer from Colorado to take him back to that State, and information was made by Chief of Police Albright. A telegram was received this morning from Deputy Sheriff Joe Reilly, stating that a man had stated east to claim the prisoner. Tony Centanni, the Italian who was made a victim of the attempted blackmail in Colorado, has been in Charleroi for two days now, and will return to Chicago soon and later to Pueblo. It was through his efforts that the man was located in Charleroi.

Apparently Mascarello is a much wanted man in Colorado, judging from the tone of the telegrams received both last night and this morning from the sheriff's office there. Chief of Police C. W. Albright was instructed to be sure to hold him, and that information had been entered. What the direct charge against him is not known, but it is supposed to be a serious one. Sam Falconi, one of a trio who approached the designated spot for Centanni to place a large sum of money, was shot and killed in a melee which followed their discovery by the sheriff's posse.

SICK FOR TWO YEARS CONVICTED OF PERJURY

Dr. Harry Sherrick Dies Early This Morning Donora Man Sentenced to Two Years in Workhouse

Dr. Harry Reuben Sherrick, 42 years old, after suffering for about two years from congestion of the liver, subsequent to a severe illness from pneumonia, died this morning at 9 o'clock at his home 813 Fallowfield avenue. He had been confined to his home for weeks.

His widow, Mrs. Katherine Sherrick, and one son, Mervin, survive; also the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sherrick at Darr Station, and two brothers, F. N. at Connellsville and Curt at Carnegie.

Dr. Sherrick and family came to Charleroi from Connellsville ten years ago. He was a veterinarian and soon built up a good practice here. Contracting pneumonia two years ago, he failed to properly recover and has been failing ever since.

The deceased was a well known resident of Charleroi and his death comes as a shock, although because of his late severe illness not entirely unexpected. Interment will be in Alverton cemetery, near Mt. Pleasant, and it is probable that the body will be taken from here on Thursday.

H. C. Courtwright, who has been tendered a promotion from relief operator to train dispatcher on the Monongahela division, left today for Homestead which will be his future home.

R. H. Rush and A. H. Chandler were Pittsburgh visitors last evening.

THREE MEN KILLED BY FAST MOVING TRAIN

Miners of Schoenberger Mine Meet Instant Death When Struck--Bodies Removed to Donora

Passengers on the P. V. and C. train from Pittsburg last evening, due here at 6:39 o'clock had a ghastly experience. At Baird station the train ran down and killed three men. The dead are Bordo Duzena, 22 years old; Frank Arrana 27 years old; Zeno Pedlo, 24 years old. All three of the victims who were coal miners employed in the Schoenberger Coal company mine at Victory Hill, started to cross the tracks to go to the company store and did not see the fast train approaching, owing to a sharp curve. The bodies were placed aboard the train and taken to Donora. Coroner J. T. Heffran was notified and will make an investigation.

UNDERWRITER ENGINEER INSPECTS WATER SERVICE

Material Reductions Expected to Follow Shortly In Penalty Rates on Charleroi Buildings

PRESSURE OF WATER IS SATISFACTORY

Tests were made of the water pressure in Charleroi yesterday by Engineer Greeno of the Underwriters engineering department, as a result of a request made by council for a reduction in penalty rates. This request was made following the completion of the water plant here last fall.

Engineer Greeno made the tests in the presence of three members of council, W. R. Gaut, Oscar C. Linn, and C. O. Frye. Fire Chief J. M. Fleming, J. N. Chester, constructing engineer of the water plant, A. Wilson of the Pittsburgh Middle Underwriters department, and others. Tests were taken from the fire plug at the corner of Ninth street and Fallowfield avenue, which was considered to have the average flow of down town sections. Two different tests were made, the first with all mains turned on. A pressure of 122 pounds was shown with no water flowing from the hydrant. With one hose connected 110 pound pressure was shown; with two hose 100 pounds pressure; with three hose 87 1-2 pounds pressure and with four hose 72 1-2 pounds. The second test was taken with the Fifth street main turned off and a satisfactory pressure was shown.

SWALLOWED BIG COIN CASE IS SETTLED

Little Girl Dies as Result Indirectly of Accident Not Reach the Court

PNEUMONIA DEVELOPS OFFICER PAYS THE COSTS

After suffering for weeks Mary Cavanaugh, 2 years 5 months and 6 days old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cavanaugh of 809 McKean avenue, died this morning. The little girl swallowed a nickel about Christmas time and this is thought to be the indirect cause of her death.

An operation was performed at the Mercy hospital, Pittsburg, and the nickel removed from the child's stomach. Later pneumonia developed and growing worse and worse, the little one finally expired this morning. The father is a well known glass worker and is employed at the Imperial Bottle works. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Jerome's Catholic church and interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

Removal Having purchased the property at 415 Fallowfield avenue, I will move my dyeing, cleaning and tailoring establishment there on February 15, where I will be better prepared than ever to serve my patrons and take care of all trade in my line. R. O. Vetter.

St. Valentine's Day

Although not a holiday on which banks can close or working people get an excuse to lay off, St. Valentine's Day is being observed in Charleroi in a manner befitting the occasion. Of no ethical, religious or patriotic significance, St. Valentine's Day cuts more or less of a figure in the hearts of the people, particularly those in whom the glamor of romance has not become dimmed or blase. Like Santa Claus, St. Valentine is one of those vanishing myths in the individual life as the years are ticked off by the horologue of time, but there is an age when the patron saint of this day inspires a tender sentiment that is "young as the newest born babe, and as old as the oldest sons of man."

Therefore the observance of the day is given up to the tender sentiment of youth and the celebration of social functions. Valentines are the order of the day, and they may be sentimental, ethereal or material. The occasion furnishes a good opportunity for the display of love and affection, and of this there is never too much among the sons and daughters of this mundane sphere.

Getting the Hook?

The effort on the part of the postal authorities to impose additional postage rates on the advertising sections of popular magazines is being vigorously resisted by these publications, which are the leaders as well as moulders of the public thought of the times. The magazines, by their wide range of readers, have become the keepers to a large extent of the public conscience, and by their widely scattered clientele have developed a degree of independence in writing and showing up governmental, corporate and individual actions and methods that the newspapers dare not touch. For that reason public men and corporate interests whose methods have been revealed in the lime light of the magazines, very naturally are not friendly, to say the least, to the medium of these expositions. It is but natural that the interests should seek to "put the hook" into the magazines if opportunity offers.

According to the publishers of magazines, if the postal increase as recommended goes into effect it will be a virtual confiscation of their business. Prices will have to be increased, and the popular priced magazine will be a thing of the past. It is claimed by the postal authorities that the department is running at a loss, but the magazine people say that if the parcels post is installed and the postoffice department conducted on business principles, it would make a big profit for the government.

To the average layman it looks as though the officials are trying to give the magazines "the hook" for the criticisms and roastings they have been getting, and it will be done at the expense of the people. The magazines are the only medium of public thought and expression that cannot be influenced and controlled, owing to their wide dissemination, and to check this medium would be bad public policy to say the least.

Uncle Sam's License Court.

An item in a recent issue of a Pittsburg newspaper states that agents of the Internal Revenue Department are busy throughout the Pittsburg district levying the Government tax upon all persons or establishments engaged in the sale of liquor. Saloons, clubs, restaurants, "speakeasies," and in fact any place where fermented beverages are sold will be compelled to pay to Uncle Sam. The work of the Internal Revenue Department this year, it is said, will be more thorough and determined than at any time in the past, and a big revenue is looked for. The government tax on liquors is $20 annually for a license to sell malt liquors, such as beer, and $5 additional where whiskey, wine and other spirituous beverages are sold.

It matters not to the Government whether the places or persons selling liquor are conducting a business within the requirements of the laws of the State in which they are located. All the Government wants is the prompt payment of the internal revenue tax. Failure to pay it is punished severely. Should the county prosecutor, or the mayor of a city, or burgess of a town, desire to look over the internal revenue collector's list of taxable persons, so as to compare it with the list of persons and places who are regularly licensed to sell liquor by the counties, the Government's records are open to them.

Several years ago it is stated that such a comparison was made in Pittsburg and Allegheny and the Government's list contained several thousand more names than were handed down by the Allegheny county license court.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

There wouldn't be much fun in life, if we couldn't have a scrap occasionally with some political combine.

Reciprocity and the tariff promise to provide the grocery store gossips with something to talk about for the next few months to come.

They want to sell liquor as bad in Fayette county as they do in Westmoreland, judging from the number of license applications.

Over in Russia a railroad has adopted a small child. That's the only thing a railroad doesn't adopt in this county.

The fellows who are in favor of an investigation of rural ignorance might run up against a stump when they ask the farmer a few questions about the things he knows more about than the man who asks.

Smiles are not always caused by a sweet disposition. Sometimes it is from a desire to show gold teeth.

It appears to us that if a Black Hand agent doesn't want to get caught he had better stay out of Charleroi. We do things here.

Little Boy Blue, come blow your horn. If you don't, you'll get left as sure as your burn. Toot it loudly and you'll thrive. If you don't who will know that you're alive?

Now it seems to be a fashion for blind people to get in comas. Blame it on the McKeesport girl.

The bolero gown is coming. No advance news yet whether it is split up the side, is tight all the way from beginning to end, or buttons down the back, front and side seams. The bifurcated gown is also on the way.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Speaking of Sothern and Marlowe's Shakespearean productions at the Alvin Theatre in Pittsburg this week reminds me of a story that was pulled off in that city years ago, when the 'legitimate' drama was the leading attraction in theatrical circles," remarked an old-timer yesterday. This was in the days of Edwin Booth and John McCulough, and once when the former tragedian was billed in Pittsburg for a week's repertoire, a western manufacturer happened to hit the city at the same time looking after some machinery and equipment. As it was the duty of the steel manufacturers to show their patrons a good time while in the city, the western man was taken to the theatre to see Booth in Hamlet, which was the big attraction of the week. At the hotel next morning some one asked the westerner how he liked the show.

"Oh," replied the man from the prairies, "it was a good enough show and well acted, but the whole thing was full of old chestnuts."

This morning in Geo. S. Might's store a prominent young man in town was seen looking over the cartoon valentines. "Some one sent me a lemon through the mail and I'm going to get even with her," he explained, as he selected and paid for a caricature that was blistering in its inference.

Capt. J. K. Hein, president of council, is responsible for the following story:

"Not long ago there lived in the country away from a good sized town in which I lived, a man known as not being possessor of his full senses. In other words he was half idiotic. Still he was remarkably shrewd. Being a man who quickly formed his likes and dislikes, it was not strange that he had a big list of the latter, and one of the influential men of the community was one on that list. The man came to town one day to do some marketing and was standing along the street when the influential individual of his acquaintance and hate passed along. Then the man from the country turned around with his eyes blazing and said: "That man's no good, I tell you. He's lazy, he gets drunk, and I don't like his politics."

Many comical things are seen in the course of a play which are not supposed to be there, but it took a barnstorming company to go the limit at a show in a valley theatre one night not long since. The play was a thrilling tragedy and the scene was set on a far western plateau. Every thing was well until the last part of the third act, when in the twilight of an evening one man was to stab another to death. During this part there was to be a blue light thrown on the two as they fought and twisted around, depicting the eventide. But on this particular occasion the calcium failed to work and the fight had to be to the bitter end in the darkness, the audience getting nothing beyond the sound of a right royal scuffle.

At last the hero triumphed, and his adversary lay cold and lifeless on the gore-covered stage. Then of course it was felt necessary to show the audience who it was that had a scrap, and the hero borrowed a match. He lit it and held it high above his head so that his features could be seen, and then the dead man raised up. The realism was spoiled, but the audience thought it got its money's worth.

MRS. ANDERS DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Mrs. Anna Mary Anders, 75 years and 11 months old, died at her home 904 Eleventh street at 12:30 o'clock this morning after a short illness. The funeral services will be held at Wright's chapel, Venetia, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and interment will be at Venetia. The deceased is a former resident of that place.

FEENEY PROPOSES BILL FOR MINERS

With the idea of giving the miners of the bituminous district the same protection afforded those in the hard coal fields by the statutes of this State, Representative William Feeney of Charleroi is having a bill prepared that all applicants for miners' certificates shall have had two years' practical experience in the mining of soft coal.

Mr. Feeney, who is identified with the United Mine Workers of America, will present the bill with the endorsement of the organization with which he is affiliated. In the opinion of the member from Washington county and others familiar with conditions in the bituminous district many of the frightful disasters that have occurred there in recent years, entailing the loss of hundreds of lives, are directly attributable to the carelessness or inexperience of the miners.

FAKIRS HAVE RICH HARVEST IN TOWN ACROSS THE CREEK

Monessen people are easy marks in being separated from their money, if conditions are to be judged by the fakirs who flock to the steel town every pay day. These come from Pittsburg, McKeesport, Homestead and all the surrounding towns, and with some trivial article for sale and a good voice reap a harvest. A goodly amount of coin is carried out of Monessen every pay day through this medium. Charleroi took steps some years ago to shut these fakirs out, and the town has not been bothered with them to any great extent since that time.

EAGLES PLAN TO HONOR THEIR DEAD

Monongahela Aerie, No. 532, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is making extensive preparations for the annual memorial services, which will be held in the Gam theatre on Sunday afternoon, March 19. W. J. Brennan of Pittsburg, candidate for Grand Worthy President of the order and to present a member of the Judiciary committee, will be the principal speaker. The other speaker will be C. W. L. McDermott, secretary of the McKeesport Aerie, who is also a noted speaker. Both men are strong Eagles and their task never fails to please.

GOOD SHOW BOOKED FOR DATE IN MARCH

A modern play to be produced at the Coyle Theatre March 22 is called "The Rosary," written by Edward E. Rose and produced by the well known theatrical managers, Messrs. Rowland and Clifford.

Quietly and modestly, with no blaze of trumpets, it projects a quiet word into court a turmoil of opinions, which many believe will revolutionize our ethics of marriage and divorce; as an illustration "The Rosary" takes you into the heart of an American home, such as our homes are today. It shows peace and happiness, then suddenly a canker sore is unmasked—lack of faith in the husband. Slowly little by little is seen the devastating power of atheism, how it saps the strength and breaks the will so that when doubt and suspicion creep in they find fertile soil for the descendants—hatred and revenge. Then comes the spiritual power of a great man—a priest whose life is given to mankind. Slowly he analyzes the situation and leads the husband and wife whom he loves, out of the darkness to happiness and peace.

House Passes Bill

Assemblyman J. B. Holland's bill allowing two or more counties to erect joint workhouses was passed finally by the House at Harrisburg last night, and was messaged to the Senate. This is the first Washington county bill to be passed by either House.

Happiness and Joy.
Happiness, according to the original use of the term, is that which happens or comes to one by a hap—that is, by an outward befalling or favorable condition. It is what money yields or will buy—dress, equipage, fashion, luxuries of the table—or it is settlement in life, independence, love, applause, admiration, honor, glory, or the more conventional and public benefits of rank, political standing, victory, power—all these stir a delight in the soul, which is not of the soul or its quality, but from without; hence they are looked upon as happening to the soul and in that sense, create happiness. Joy differs from this as being of the soul itself, originating in its quality. And this appears in the original form of the word, which instead of suggesting a hap literally denotes a leap or spring. . . . The motion is outward and not toward, as we conceive it to be in happiness. It is not the bliss of condition, but of character.—Dr. Horace Bushnell

Concealed Weapons.
Once in a college town the rumor that students were carrying concealed weapons reached the ears of the local police. The chief at once issued stringent orders that the heinous practice should be stopped. One day a group of them passed a policeman, and one of the students in so doing put his hand to his hip pocket. Then, as if recollecting himself in time, he hastily withdrew it and looked sheepishly at the policeman.

"What have you in that pocket?" the latter asked sternly.
Instead of answering, the student and all his companions, as if panic stricken, started to run. After a chase all the students were cornered and ordered to deliver up whatever they had in their hip pockets.
Meekly they obeyed. Each one carried a corncob. The remarks of the policeman cannot possibly be recorded.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"But Mrs. Green doesn't speak to Mrs. Watson anyhow."

The Dinner Table of Old France.
Could we restore for half an hour the dinner table of old France and obtain half a dozen instantaneous photographs of a royal banquet at any era between the reign of Francis I. and Louis XIV. such laughter would be heard as might disturb the serenity of Louis in paradise. The duchess, her napkin tied securely around her neck, would be seen nibbling a bone, the noble marquis surreptitiously scratching himself, the belle marquise withdrawing her spoon from her lips to help a neighbor to sauce with it, another fair creature scouring her plate with her bread, a gallant courtier using his doublet or the tablecloth as a towel for his fingers and two footmen holding a yurd of damask under a lady's chin while she emptied her goblet at a draft. All of these at one era or another were the usages of polite society. During a feast of inordinate length it was sometimes necessary to substitute a clean cloth for the one which the carelessness or bad manners of the guests had reduced to a deplorable condition.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Transformation.
They sat hand in hand on the yellow sands, in the shelter of a bowlder, watching the fleecy wavelets creep timorously shoreward.
"Frankie," she sighed, "say I'm oos ikkie petsie once more."
"Oo's my ikkie petsie, blessums ikkie heart," came from the youth in the puce socks.
Up to the blue heavens rose a fat guffaw from the other side of the bowlder.
"Ikkie petsie! Ikkie petsie!" chuckled a corpulent gentleman with a four day stubble growth.
"Go it, Frankie! You ain't art done yet. Eight years ago!"
"Eight?" interrupted a shrill voice from the cliffs above. "You'll sleep wot little sense you 'ave got away if you ain't careful. Thought you was goin' to get some wheiks for tea?"
"Eight years ago, Frankie," continued the stout gentleman, mournfully, jerking his thumb cliffward, "she was my ikkie petsie!"—London Tit-Bits.

Florence Nightingale.
There is a story that after the return to England of the troops from the Crimea Lord Stratford at a dinner suggested that those present should write on a piece of paper the name of the person whose Crimean reputation would endure longest. When the votes came to be examined it was found that not a single soldier had received a vote. Every paper bore the same two words—Florence Nightingale.

The "Lady With the Lamp" used to relate the following story: "Calling one day on one of her humble neighbors, she was surprised to see the usually tidy cottage in a state of great disorder. 'Why, Mrs. —,' said Miss Nightingale, 'what is wrong with you? I never saw your home looking like this.' 'Beg your pardon, miss,' said the abashed woman, 'but, you see, I am expecting the visiting lady, and if she sees my place looking clean and tidy she'd think I didn't need no helpin'!"

Chihuahua Dogs.
The true Chihuahua breed is the smallest race of dogs in the world. They are also the most highly strung, sensitive and valiant of their kind. Their sense of sound, sight and smell is developed to a marvelous degree, and they have a bark which would rise supreme above the noises of a boiler shop. A strange step sets one of the little hair trigger animals into a frenzy of ear splitting rage, and yet they are so keenly intelligent that they can distinguish between friend and foe almost at first sight, sound or whiff. Long before the duller senses of man can detect a foreign presence these little marvels of nerve force will have "sized up" the intruder, and if not satisfied that all is well their staccato warning will wake the echoes.—Los Angeles Examiner.

The Ruling Passion.
Among the well known figures of the Paris salons mentioned in "An Eighteenth Century Marquise" was Bossut, mathematician and abbe, who had translated Maria Agnesi's work on the infinitesimal calculus. "When he was dying Maupertius was by his bedside. No one knew whether the agony was ended. 'Twelve times twelve?' asked Maupertius in a distinct voice. 'One hundred and forty-four,' came the automatic answer" as Bossut breathed his last.

Appearances.
It is the appearances that fill the scene, and we pause not to ask of what realities they are the proxies. When the actor of Athens moved all hearts as he clasped the burial urn and burst into broken sobs how few then knew that it held the ashes of his son!—Bulwer-Lytton.

A Straight Tip.
"You can't see my husband. He is not at home."
"But, mad m, I want to see him the worst way."
"Well, if that's the way you want to see him you'd better sit right there on the steps until he comes from the club!"—Houston Post.

Infantile Depravity.
Elsie (aged seven)—Ma, I want a penny. Mother—What for, dear? Elsie—I asked Bertie Jones to pretend we're getting married, and he says he won't do it unless I have a dowry!

Harsh words are like hailstones in summer, which, if melted, would fertilize the tender plant they batter down.

A Good Bluff.
He was young and had just graduated from law school. His resources were exhausted, but he bravely swung forth his bludge and waited. But no clients stopped on that side of the street. His office rent was due, and his clothes were becoming shiny, but he went to his office with a regularity that would indicate a thriving practice. He was deep in an imaginary case, and when the authorities were all noted and arguments prepared he started forth-downtown and thrashed the mayor's son, whom he met in the street. The act aroused the righteous indignation of the townsmen, and he faced an angry court. But in his testimony he was able to include a sharp attack on the mayor and his administration. He quoted law from Lycurgus and Solon and gave them the page, number and chapter every time. The case was continued and sent up to a higher court. At last it reached the supreme bench, and the young man made the most of his opportunity to show his ability as a lawyer. He lost the case and paid his fine cheerfully, for he had established for himself a practice which assured his future.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

President Johnson's Impeachment.
The house impeached President Johnson on Nov. 25, 1867, charging him with having removed Secretary of War Stanton in direct violation of the tenure of office act, with having appointed General Thomas contrary to the same act, with conspiracy with General Thomas and others for the intimidation of Secretary Stanton and the unlawful disbursement of the war department's money and with inducing General Emory, commanding the department of Washington, to disobey orders.

The house adopted the resolution of impeachment by a vote of 126 to 42. After the trial of the case before the senate the vote for impeachment there stood 35 to 19, thus being short of the necessary two-thirds. The senate adjourned sine die, however, without voting on some of the primary articles embraced in the charges against the president. Thereupon the chief justice of the United States court entered a verdict of acquittal on the record.—New York Times.

A Great Trade Secret.
As every one knows, the process of manufacturing the paper of which Bank of England notes are made is one of the greatest of all trade secrets. It is known only to the governor of the Bank of England and to three other persons intimately connected with the industry, which is carried on at Overton, a quiet little village in Hants. All that the outside world is allowed to know concerning this precious paper is that it is made, among other ingredients, out of charred husks and Rhenish vines.
Quite as profound a secret is the manufacture of both the paper and the ink used for American banknotes. The former has the double advantage of not being a secret preparation, but one that only "takes" one particular kind of ink, which is quite unique, the American government paying the manufacturer, who alone possesses the secret, the sum of $50,000 a year for making it.—Pearson's Weekly.

How Did He Know?
Joe, the fat boy in the "Pickwick Papers," spent most of his time in slumber. He was happier that way. Probably there are a good many other people in the world a good deal like Joe, but most of them do not get the chance for sleep that he had. This scrap of conversation, recently overheard, would seem to indicate that, although this is a nervous age, the desire for sleep is not wholly dead.
"I don't feel well," remarked Smith as he took off his coat in the office, preparatory to sitting down at his desk. "The trouble with me is that I haven't slept as I should. I don't feel well unless I've slept."
"That's the same way with me," remarked his partner. "In fact, I think I feel best of all when I'm sound asleep."—Youth's Companion.

The First Oyster Eater.
The gluttonous Vitellius is reported to have eaten 1,000 oysters at a sitting. "He was a very valiant man who first ventured on eating of oysters," King James was wont to declare, a sentiment echoed by the poet Gay:
The man had sure a palate covered o'er
With brass or steel that on the rocky shore
First broke the oozy oyster's pearly coat
And risked the living morsel down his throat.

Trying to Help.
Hotel Clerk (to rural guest closing front entrance)—Hey, there! What are you trying to do? Uncle Eben—What are you excited, young fellow? I jest thought, seeing as how I was prob'ly the last one in tonight, I'd do the right thing and lock the doors 'fore going to bed!—Puck.

Matter of Intelligence.
Mrs. Suburbs—John, did you call at the intelligence office today to inquire about a maid of all work? Suburbs—Yes, my dear. Mrs. Suburbs—Couldn't you find one? Suburbs—Oh, yes; I found a dozen, but they were all too intelligent to come out to this place.—Chicago News.

No Necessity.
Perdida (at the candy pulling)—Where do we wash our hands? Myrilla—Oh, we don't have to do that. Pulling the candy makes them beautifully white and clean.—Chicago Tribune.

Make not thy friends too cheap to thee not yourself to thy friends.—Fulker.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

WHAT CURES ECZEMA?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D., can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it, and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription.

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to that torturing itch.

Because—D. D. D. starts the cure at the foundation of the trouble.

Because—it cleanses, soothes and heals the skin.

Because—it enables Nature to repair the ravages of the disease.

Because—The records of ten years of complete cures of thousands of the most serious cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema cure.

How to Cure Chronic Colds and Bronchitis

Bluevale, Ont., May 4, 1910.

"I was sick for two years with a chronic cold and bronchitis and a consequent run-down condition. I received no benefit from doctors, and had to give up work. VINOL was recommended and from the second bottle I commenced to improve—I gained in weight and strength, my cold and bronchial trouble disappeared, and I am at work again. I want to recommend VINOL to anyone who is in need of such a medicine."—THOMAS HIGGINS.

It is the combined action of the curative elements of the cods' livers aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL which makes it so successful in curing stubborn colds and bronchitis.

VINOL is a constitutional remedy for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and pulmonary troubles, not a palliative like cough syrups.

Try a bottle of VINOL. If you don't think it helped you, we will return your money.

"LOOK OUT FOR THE CARS"

DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that sign at a railroad crossing?

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing?

Maybe you think, Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise."

Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."

Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world.

The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continually advertising—and they are continually doing a good business.

If it pays to run a few ads 'round about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.

A Lucky Artist

Recently a price of $2,000 was offered to the artist contributing the best drawings of a comic feature for Sunday newspapers. As a result of the offer several thousand artists from every section of the United States, from Canada and from foreign lands across the sea contributed drawings. The judges gave a most scrupulous attention to every one. Slowly the mountain of submitted comics series diminished until there were but 100 drawings left. Fifty of these were rejected a week later. Later but six remained, any one of which would have made a desirable comic feature. At last two were put aside and finally Mr. Twee Deedle was chosen and the $2,000 was awarded John R. Gruelle of Norwich, Conn., whose prize comic, "Mr. Twee Deedle," will be the delight of mothers, cousins, aunts, sisters and children for several months.

Unlike many comic features, "Mr. Twee Deedle" is intended to teach a lesson to children of this county, and at the same time furnish them innocent amusement. Just funny enough to gain the attention--and thereby directing their minds to better things. "Mr. Twee Deedle" has been added to the already high class comic section of The Pittsburgh Dispatch and with Kaptin Kiddo and four other splendid features will make The Dispatch comic the best in the world. See that your children are supplied with a clean comic feature when you get your Sunday paper. The publisher of The Dispatch endeavors to keep its comic section in keeping with the other features, making it the ideal paper for the homes where children should be given the very best. Grown ups, too will like "Mr. Twee Deedle" and will praise the judge for awarding the $2,000 to its originator. The first of "Mr. Twee Deedle" will appear in The Dispatch Sunday, February 19.

COAL PRODUCTION OF 21ST DISTRICT SURPASSES THAT OF PREVIOUS YEAR

Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham Makes Report Concerning Twelve Months Period Just Ended--Washington County Drops From First to Second Place, Fayette Securing From it the Banner Position

Production of coal in the 21st Bituminous district exceeded that of the former year by 620,222 tons according to the report for the past year given the Mail today by Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham of Charleroi. The production would have been very much greater had it not been for the low water in the river during the latter part of the year which prevented a large number of the mines being operated, as the river is the only means of shipping their product; also the suspension during the month of April, pending the adjustment of the miner's scale for the next two years, is partly responsible for reducing the output of the mines.

Washington county dropped from first place in this district. While it gained 33,888 tons over the year 1909, Fayette county gained 389,779 tons over the former year and now holds first place with Washington second. Westmoreland gained 196,560 tons over the former year or about 38 per cent, with Fayette county with 11 per cent and Washington with about 1 per cent gain. Of the three largest coal companies in the district, the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Co. gained 244,015 tons, or about 7 per cent. The Pittsburgh Coal Co. gained 260,197 tons or 20.7 per cent. The Vesta Coal Co., lost 144,869 tons or about 6 per cent.

The improvement in the mines during the last year towards effecting safer and better sanitary conditions was greater than has ever been in the mines along the river, such as sinking additional air shafts and other openings to the surface, making additional air courses, traveling ways, shelter holes along the haulage ways and making additional space between the cars and rib along the haulage roads, also cleaning the refuse, dirt, rock, slate and timber, that had accumulated along the side of the haulage roads. Ventilating fans of greater capacity have been installed, wooden stoppings between the air courses have been replaced by permanent masonry ones, overcasts have been built in order to eliminate the use of doors, affording a better system of ventilation. Safety lamps have been introduced on pillar work, affording a greater degree of safety from sudden inflows of explosive gas, and numerous other improvements have been made.

The number of fatal accidents increased over the number of last year in view of the fact there were stricter regulations enforced in the mine than ever before. It seems to be almost impossible to prevent the Chance Taker from taking chances on his life. It would require an official to be present in every working place to try and prevent some workmen for taking these chances. As a result of investigations of fatal accidents it appears that these chances are taken in order to get out of doing a little extra work to avoid the risks he is subject to in his class of work, or in other words it may be used as greediness, as the more coal he loads the larger are his returns. UNDERWRITER ENGINEER INSPECTS WATER SERVICE

PRESSURE OF WATER IS SATISFACTORY

Tests were made of the water pressure in Charleroi yesterday by Engineer Greeno of the Underwriters engineering department, as a result of a request made by council for a reduction in penalty rates. This request was made following the completion of the water plant here last fall.

Engineer Greeno made the tests in the presence of three members of council, W. R. Gaut, Oscar C. Linn, and C. O. Frye. Fire Chief J. M. Fleming, J. N. Chester, constructing engineer of the water plant, A. Wilson of the Pittsburgh Middle Underwriters department, and others. Tests were taken from the fire plug at the corner of Ninth street and Fallowfield avenue, which was considered to have the average flow of down town sections. Two different tests were made, the first with all mains turned on. A pressure of 122 pounds was shown with no water flowing from the hydrant. With one hose connected 110 pound pressure was shown; with two hose 100 pounds pressure; with three hose 87 1-2 pounds pressure and with our hose 72 1-2 pounds. The second test was taken with the Fifth street main turned off and a satisfactory pressure was shown.

Another inspection will be made by the Underwriters Department before a final report is made and the reduction of penalty rates declared. A material reduction is practically assured, such is the change of conditions by the construction of the water plant.

Mr. Greeno said that during the past 20 years there has been great development of ideas for fire protection. There are many technicalities entering into the question ranging from the duplicate system of pumping to the proper gridiron of the water main in a town or city.

SICK FOR TWO YEARS Dr. Harry Sherrick Dies Early This Morning

Dr. Harry Reuben Sherrick, 42 years old, after suffering for about two years from congestion of the liver, subsequent to a severe illness from pneumonia, died this morning at 9 o'clock at his home 513 Fallowfield avenue. He had been confined to his home for weeks.

His widow, Mrs. Katherine Sherrick, and one son, Marvin, survive; also the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sherrick at Darr Station, and two brothers, F. N. at Connellsville and Curt at Carnegie.

Dr. Sherrick and family came to Charleroi from Connellsville ten years ago. He was a veterinarian and soon built up a good practice here. Contracting pneumonia two years ago, he failed to properly recover and has been failing ever since.

The deceased was a well known resident of Charleroi and his death comes as a shock, although because of his late severe illness not entirely unexpected. Interment will be in Alverton cemetery, near Mt. Pleasant, and it is probable that the body will be taken from here on Thursday.

H. C. Courtwright, who has been tendered a promotion from relief operator to train dispatcher on the Monongahela division, left today for Homestead which will be his future home.

R. H. Rush and A. H. Chandler were Pittsburgh visitors last evening.

CONVICTED OF PERJURY Donora Man Sentenced to Two Years in Workhouse

Convicted yesterday at the county court of perjury, William Divins of Donora was sentenced to two years in the workhouse and fined $1 and costs by Judge J. A. McVaine.

In imposing the heavy sentence Judge McVaine said that he would make a determined effort to stop perjury and that witnesses must be made to understand the value of an oath. He said that he had been told there is much perjury by witnesses in gambling and liquor cases.

Ralph Holmes, who was convicted of stealing chickens in North Franklin township, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1 and costs and serve six months in the workhouse.

Frank Bundy, a negro of Washington, pleaded guilty to selling liquor without a license, and was given a sentence of $500 fine and costs and five months in the county jail.

William Kelly of Monongahela entered a plea of guilty to the charge of extortion. He drew a fine of $1 and costs and 60 days in jail.

Alexander McDonald admitted forging a check on the Bentleyville bank. The court sentenced him to pay a fine of $1 and costs and serve four months in jail.

Jack Vernon of California admitted changing coal checks at the Crescen mine and was sentenced to serve 6 days in jail and pay a fine of $1 and costs.

J. F. Donaghy is transacting business today in Pittsburgh.

Little Girl Dies as Result Indirectly of Accident

PNEUMONIA DEVELOPS

After suffering for weeks Mary Cavanaugh, 2 years 6 months and 6 days old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cavanaugh of 309 McKean avenue, died this morning. The little girl swallowed a nickel about Christmas time and this is thought to be the indirect cause of her death.

An operation was performed at the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, and the nickel removed from the child's stomach. Later pneumonia developed and growing worse and worse, the little one finally expired this morning. The father is a well known glass worker and is employed at the Imperial Bottle works. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Jerome's Catholic church and interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

CASE IS SETTLED

Bush-Smith Affair Does Not Reach the Court

OFFICER PAYS THE COSTS

By mutual agreement of the attorneys for both the defendant and plaintiff, the assault and battery case of Miss Iva Bush against former P. R. R. Detective H. F. Smith of Monongahela, was settled yesterday at Washington. Miss Bush withdrew the charge and Smith consented to pay all the costs except her personal expenses.

The case which arose from the shooting affair on the streets of Monongahela some time ago, when Miss Bush slightly wounded Smith, was to have been called for trial yesterday. Miss Bush charged Smith with having assaulted her and claimed that she shot to protect herself. Both sides had several witnesses present yesterday including a man from the former home town of Miss Bush in Ohio. Efforts were made in the morning to settle the case, which ended in the attorneys agreeing on the terms.

H. L. Williams, Esq., represented the plaintiff and Alex. M. Templeton the defendant.

R. S. Phillips and family leave today for Bradenton, Fla. where they will remain for some time.

St. Valentine's Day

Although not a holiday on which banks can close or working people get an excuse to lay off, St. Valentine's Day is being observed in Charleroi in a manner befitting the occasion. Of no ethical, religious or patriotic significance, St. Valentine's Day cuts more or less of a figure in the hearts of the people, particularly those in whom the glamour of romance has not become dimmed or blase. Like Santa Claus, St. Valentine is one of the vanishing myths in the individual life as the years are flicked off by the horologe of time, but there is an age when the patron saint of this day inspires a tender sentiment that is "young as the newest born babe, and as old as the oldest sons of man."

Therefore the observance of the day is given up to the tender sentiment of youth and the celebration of social functions. Valentines are the order of the day, and they may be sentimental, ethereal or material. The occasion furnishes a good opportunity for the display of love and affection, and of this there is never too much among the sons and daughters of this mundane sphere.

Getting the Hook?

The effort on the part of the postal authorities to impose additional postage rates on the advertising sections of popular magazines is being vigorously resisted by these publications, which are the leaders as well as moulders of the public thought of the times. The magazines, by their wide range of readers, have become the keepers to a large extent of the public conscience, and by their widely scattered clientele have developed a degree of independence in writing and showing up governmental, corporate and individual actions and methods that the newspapers dare not touch. For that reason public men and corporate interests whose methods have been revealed in the lime light of the magazines, very naturally are not friendly, to say the least, to the medium of these expositions. It is but natural that the interests should seek to "put the hook" into the magazines if opportunity offers.

According to the publishers of magazines, if the postal increase as recommended goes into effect it will be a virtual confiscation of their business. Prices will have to be increased, and the popular priced magazine will be a thing of the past. It is claimed by the postal authorities that the department is running at a loss, but the magazine people say that if the parcels post is installed and the postoffice department conducted on business principles, it would make a big profit for the government.

To the average layman it looks as though the officials are trying to give the magazines "the hook" for the criticisms and roastings they have been getting, and it will be done at the expense of the people. The magazines are the only medium of public thought and expression that cannot be influenced and controlled, owing to their wide dissemination, and to check this medium would be bad public policy to say the least.

Uncle Sam's License Court

An item in a recent issue of a Pittsburg newspaper states that agents of the Internal Revenue Department are busy throughout the Pittsburg district levying the Government tax upon all persons or establishments engaged in the sale of liquor. Saloons, clubs, restaurants, "speakeasies," and in fact any place where fermented beverages are sold will be compelled to pay to Uncle Sam. The work of the Internal Revenue Department this year, it is said, will be more thorough and determined than at any time in the past, and a big revenue is looked for. The government tax on liquors is $20 annually for a license to sell malt liquors, such as beer, and $5 additional where whiskey, wine and other spirituous beverages are sold.

It matters not to the Government whether the places or persons selling liquor are conducting a business within the requirements of the laws of the State in which they are located. All the Government wants is the prompt payment of the internal revenue tax. Failure to pay it is punished severely. Should the county prosecutor, or the mayor of a city, or burgess of a town, desire to look over the internal revenue collector's list of taxable persons, so as to compare it with the list of persons and places who are regularly licensed to sell liquor by the counties, the Government's records are open to them.

Several years ago it is stated that such a comparison was made in Pittsburg and Allegheny and the Government's list contained several thousand more names than were handed down by the Allegheny county license court.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

There wouldn't be much fun in life, if we couldn't have a scrap occasionally with some political combine.

Reciprocity and the tariff promise to provide the grocery store gossip with something to talk about for the next few months to come.

They want to sell liquor as bad in Fayette county as they do in Westmoreland, judging from the number of license applications.

Over in Russia a railroad has adopted a small child. That's the only thing a railroad doesn't adopt in this country.

The fellows who are in favor of an investigation of rural ignorance might run up against a stump when they ask the farmer a few questions about the things he knows more about than the man who asks.

Smiles are not always caused by a sweet disposition. Sometimes it is from a desire to show gold teeth.

It appears to us that if a Black Hand agent doesn't want to get caught he had better stay out of Charleroi. We do things here.

Little Boy Blue, come blow your horn. If you don't, you'll get left as sure as your born. Toot it loudly and you'll thrive. If you don't who will know that you're alive?

Now it seems to be a fashion for blind people to get in comas. Blame it on the McKeesport girl.

The bolero gown is coming. No advance news yet whether it is split up the side, is tight all the way from beginning to end, or buttons down the back, front and side seams. The bifurcated gown is also on the way.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Speaking of Sothorn and Marlowe's Shakespearean productions at the Monongahela Theatre in Pittsburg, this week reminds me of a story that was pulled off in that city years ago, when the 'legitimate' drama was the leading attraction in theatrical circles," remarked an old-timer yesterday. This was in the days of Edwin Booth and John McCullough, and once when the former tragedian was billed in Pittsburg for a week's repertoire, a western manufacturer happened to hit the city at the same time looking after some machinery and equipment. As it was the duty of the steel manufacturers to show their patrons a good time while in the city, the western man was taken to the theatre to see Booth in Hamlet, which was the big attraction of the week. At the hotel next morning some one asked the westerner how he liked the show.

"Oh," replied the man from the prairies, "it was a good enough show and well acted, but the whole thing was full of old chestnuts."

This morning in Geo. S. Night's store a prominent young man in town was seen looking over the cartoon valentines. "Some one sent me a lemon through the mail and I'm going to get even with her," he explained, as he selected and paid for a caricature that was blistering in its inference.

Capt. J. K. Hein, president of council, is responsible for the following story:

"Not long ago there lived in the country away from a good sized town in which I lived, a man known as not being possessor of his full senses. In other words—he was half idiotic. Still he was remarkably shrewd. Being a man who quickly formed his likes and dislikes, it was not strange that he had a big list of the latter, and one of the influential men of the community was one on that list. The man came to town one day to do some marketing and was standing along the street when the influential individual of his acquaintance and hate passed along. Then the man from the country turned around with his eyes blazing and said: 'That man's no good, I tell you. He's lazy, he gets drunk, and I don't like his politics.'"

Many comical things are seen in the course of a play which are not supposed to be there, but it took a barnstorming company to go the limit at a show in a valley theatre one night not long since. The play was a thrilling tragedy and the scene was set on a far western plateau. Every thing was well until the last part of the third act, when in the twilight of an evening one man was to stab another to death. During this part there was to be a blue light thrown on the two as they fought and twisted around, depicting the eventide. But on this particular occasion the calcium failed to work and the fight had to be to the bitter end in the darkness, the audience getting nothing beyond the sound of a right royal scuffle.

At last the hero triumphed, and his adversary lay cold and lifeless on the gore-covered stage. Then of course it was felt necessary to show the audience who it was that had a scrap, and the hero borrowed a match. He lit it and held it high above his head so that his features could be seen, and then the dead man raised up. The realism was spoiled, but the audience thought it got its money's worth.

MRS. ANDERS DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Mrs. Anna Mary Anders, 75 years and 11 months old, died at her home 904 Eleventh street at 12:30 o'clock this morning after a short illness. The funeral services will be held at Wright's chapel, Venetia, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and interment will be at Venetia. The deceased is a former resident of that place.

FEENEY PROPOSES BILL FOR MINERS

With the idea of giving the miners of the bituminous district the same protection afforded those in the hard coal fields by the statutes of this State, Representative William Feeney of Charleroi is having a bill prepared that all applicants for miners' certificates shall have had two years' practical experience in the mining of soft coal.

Mr. Feeney, who is identified with the United Mine Workers of America, will present the bill with the endorsement of the organization with which he is affiliated. In the opinion of the member from Washington county and others familiar with conditions in the bituminous district many of the frightful disasters that have occurred there in recent years, entailing the loss of hundreds of lives, are directly attributable to the carelessness or inexperience of the miners.

FAKIRS HAVE RICH HARVEST IN TOWN ACROSS THE CREEK

Monessen people are easy marks in being separated from their money, if conditions are to be judged by the fakirs who flock to the steel town every pay day. These come from Pittsburg, McKeesport, Homestead and all the surrounding towns, and with some trivial article for sale and a good voice reap a harvest. A goodly amount of coin is carried out of Monessen every pay day through this medium. Charleroi took steps some years ago to shut these fakirs out, and the town has not been bothered with them to any great extent since that time.

EAGLES PLAN TO HONOR THEIR DEAD

Monongahela Aerie, No. 532, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is making extensive preparations for the annual memorial services, which will be held in the Gem theatre on Sunday afternoon, March 19. W. J. Brennan of Pittsburg, candidate for Grand Worthy President of the order and to present a member of the Judiciary committee, will be the principal speaker. The other speaker will be C. W. L. McDermott, secretary of the McKeesport Aerie, who is also a noted speaker. Both men are strong Eagles and their task never fails to please.

GOOD SHOW BOOKED FOR DATE IN MARCH

A modern play to be produced at the Coyle Theatre March 22 is called "The Rosary," written by Edward E. Rose and produced by the well known theatrical managers, Messrs. Rowland and Clifford.

Quietly and modestly, with no blaze of trumpets, it projects a quiet word into court a turmoil of opinions, which many believe will revolutionize our ethics of marriage and divorce; as an illustration "The Rosary" takes you into the heart of an American home, such as our homes are today. It shows peace and happiness, then suddenly a canker sore is unmasked—lack of faith in the husband. Slowly little by little is seen the devastating power of atheism, how it saps the strength and breaks the will so that when doubt and suspicion creep in they find fertile soil for the descendants—hatred and revenge. Then comes the spiritual power of a great man—a priest whose life is given to mankind. Slowly he analyzes the situation and leads the husband and wife whom he loves, out of the darkness to happiness and peace.

House Passes Bill

Assemblyman J. B. Holland's bill allowing two or more counties to erect joint workhouses was passed finally by the House at Harrisburg last night, and was messaged to the Senate. This is the first Washington county bill to be passed by either House.

happiness and Joy.

Happiness, according to the original use of the term, is that which happens or comes to one by a hap—that is, by an outward befalling or favorable condition. It is what money yields or will buy—dress, equipage, fashion, luxuries of the table—or it is settlement in life, independence, love, applause, admiration, honor, glory, or the more conventional and public benefits of rank, political standing, victory, power—all these stir a delight in the soul, which is not of the soul or its quality, but from without; hence they are looked upon as happening to the soul and in that sense, create happiness. Joy differs from this as being of the soul itself, originating in its quality. And this appears in the original form of the word, which instead of suggesting a hap literally denotes a leap or spring. * * * The motion is outward and not toward, as we conceive it to be in happiness. It is not the bliss of condition, but of character.—Dr. Horace Bushnell

Concealed Weapons.

Once in a college town the rumor that students were carrying concealed weapons reached the ears of the local police. The chief at once issued stringent orders that the heinous practice should be stopped. One day a group of them passed a policeman, and one of the students in so doing put his hand to his hip pocket. Then, as if recollecting himself in time, he hastily withdrew it and looked sheepishly at the policeman.

"What have you in that pocket?" the latter asked sternly.

Instead of answering, the student and all his companions, as if panic stricken, started to run. After a chase all the students were cornered and ordered to deliver up whatever they had in their hip pockets.

Meekly they obeyed. Each one carried a corn-cob. The remarks of the policeman cannot possibly be recorded.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Dinner Table of Old France.
Could we restore for half an hour the dinner table of old France and obtain half a dozen instantaneous photographs of a royal banquet at any era between the reign of Francis I. and Louis XIV. such laughter would be heard as might disturb the serenity of Louis in paradise. The duchess, her napkin tied securely around her neck, would be seen nibbling a bone, the noble marquis surreptitiously scratching himself, the belle marquise withdrawing her spoon from her lips to help a neighbor to sauce with it, an other fair creature scouring her plate with her bread, a gallant courtier using his doublet or the tablecloth as a towel for his fingers and two footmen holding a yard of damask under a lady's chin while she emptied her goblet at a draft. All of these at one era or another were the usages of polite society. During a feast of inordinate length it was sometimes necessary to substitute a clean cloth for the one which the carelessness or bad manners of the guests had reduced to a deplorable condition.—New Orleans Times-Democrat

The Transformation.
They set hand in hand on the yellow sands, in the shelter of a boulder, watching the fleet template cautiously shoreward.
"Frankie," she sighed, "say I'm oos ikkle petrie once more."
"Oo's my ikkle petrie, blessums ikkle heart," came from the youth in the pace socks.
Up to the blue heavens rose a fat guffaw from the other side of the boulder.
"Ikkle petrie! Ikkle petrie!" came a loud, rollicking laughter with a four day stubble growth.
"Go it, Frankie! You ain't arf done yet. Eight years ago!"
"Eight?" interrupted a shrill voice from the cliffs above. "You'll sleep wot little sense you 'ave got away if you ain't careful. Thought you was goin' to get some wheeks for tea?"
"Eight years ago, Frankie," continued the stout gentleman, mournfully, jerking his thumb cliffward, "she was my ikkle petrie!"—London Tit-Bits.

Florence Nightingale.
There is a story that after the return to England of the troops from the Crimea Lord Stratford at a dinner suggested that those present should write on a piece of paper the name of the person whose Crimean reputation would endure longest. When the votes came to be examined it was found that not a single soldier had received a vote. Every paper bore the same two words—Florence Nightingale.

The "Lady With the Lamp" used to relate the following story: "Calling one day on one of her humble neighbors, she was surprised to see the usually tidy cottage in a state of great disorder. 'Why, Mrs. —,' said Miss Nightingale, 'what is wrong with you? I never saw your home looking like this.' 'Beg your pardon, miss,' said the abashed woman, 'but you see, I am expecting the visiting lady, and if she sees my place looking clean and tidy she'd think I didn't need no helpin'!"

Chihuahua Dogs.
The true Chihuahua breed is the smallest race of dogs in the world. They are also the most highly strung, sensitive and valiant of their kind. Their sense of sound, sight and smell is developed to a marvelous degree, and they have a bark which would rise supreme above the noises of a boiler shop. A strange step sets one of the little hair trigger animals into a frenzy of ear splitting rage, and yet they are so keenly intelligent that they can distinguish between friend and foe at most at first sight, sound or whiff. Long before the duller senses of man can detect a foreign presence these little marvels of nerve force will have "sized up" the intruder, and if not satisfied that all is well their staccato warning will wake the echoes.—Los Angeles Examiner.

The Ruling Passion.
Among the well known figures of the Paris salons mentioned in "An Eighteenth Century Marquise" was Bossut, mathematician and abbe, who had translated Maria Agnesi's work on the infinitesimal calculus. "When he was dying Maupertius was by his bedside. No one knew whether the agony was ended. Twelve times twelve? asked Maupertius in a distinct voice. 'One hundred and forty-four,' came the automatic answer as Bossut breathed his last."

Appearances.
It is the appearances that fill the scene, and we pause not to ask of what realities they are the proxies. When the actor of Athens moved all hearts as he clasped the burial urn and burst into broken sobs how few then knew that it held the ashes of his son!—Bulwer-Lytton

A Straight Tip.
"You can't see my husband. He is not at home."
"But, mad m, I want to see him the worst way."
"Well, if that's the way you want to see him you'd better sit right there on the steps until he comes from the club!"—Houston Post.

Infantile Depravity.
Miss (aged seven)—"Ma, I want a penny. Mother—What for, dear? Elsie—I asked Bertie Jones to pretend we're getting married, and he says he won't do it unless I have a dowry!"

Harsh words are like ballstones in summer, which, if melted, would fertilize the tender plant they better down.

A Good Bluff.
He was young and had just graduated from law school. His resources were exhausted, but he bravely swung forth his single and waited. But no clients stopped on that side of the street. His office rent was due and his clothes were becoming shiny, but he went to his office with a regularity that would indicate a thriving practice. He was deep in an imaginary case, and when the authorities were all noted and arguments prepared he started forth downtown and thrashed the mayor's son, whom he met in the street. The act aroused the righteous indignation of the townsman, and he faced an angry court. But in his testimony he was able to include a sharp attack on the mayor and his administration. He quoted law from Lyeurgus and Solon and gave them the page, number and chapter every time. The case was continued and sent up to a higher court. At last it reached the supreme bench, and the young man made the most of his opportunity to show his ability as a lawyer. He lost the case and paid his fine cheerfully, for he had established for himself a practice which assured his future.—Joe Mitchell Chaplin in National Magazine

President Johnson's Impeachment.
The house impeached President Johnson on Nov. 22, 1867, charging him with having removed Secretary of War Stanton in direct violation of the tenure of office act, with having appointed General Thomas contrary to the same act, with conspiracy with General Thomas and others for the intimidation of Secretary Stanton and the unlawful disbursement of the war department's money and with inducing General Emory, commanding the department of Washington, to disobey orders.

The house adopted the resolution of impeachment by a vote of 126 to 42. After the trial of the case before the senate the vote for impeachment there stood 35 to 18, thus being short of the necessary two-thirds. The senate adjourned sine die, however, without voting on some of the primary articles embraced in the charges against the president. Thereupon the chief justice of the United States court entered a verdict of acquittal on the record.—New York Times

A Great Trade Secret.
As every one knows the process of manufacturing the paper of which Bank of England notes are made is one of the greatest of all trade secrets. It is known only to the governor of the Bank of England and to three other persons intimately connected with the industry which is carried on at Overton, a quiet little village in Hants. All that the outside world is allowed to know concerning this precious paper is that it is made, among other ingredients, out of charred barks and Rhenish vines. Quite as profound a secret is the manufacture of both the paper and the ink used for American banknotes. The former has the double advantage of not being a secret preparation, but one that only "takes" one particular kind of ink, which is quite unique, the American government paying the manufacturer, who alone possesses the secret, the sum of $50,000 a year for making it.—Pearson's Weekly

How Did He Know?
Joe, the fat boy in the "Pickwick Papers," spent most of his time in slumber. He was happier that way. Probably there are a good many other people in the world a good deal like Joe, but most of them do not get the chance for sleep that he had. This scrap of conversation, recently overheard, would seem to indicate that, although this is a nervous age, the desire for sleep is not wholly dead.
"I don't feel well," remarked Smith as he took off his coat in the office, preparatory to sitting down at his desk. "The trouble with me is that I haven't slept as I should. I don't feel well unless I've slept."
"That's the same way with me," remarked his partner. "In fact, I think I feel best of all when I'm sound asleep."—Youth's Companion.

The First Oyster Eater.
The gluttonous Vitellus is reported to have eaten 1,000 oysters at a sitting. "He was a very valiant man who first ventured on eating of oysters," King James was wont to declare, a sentiment echoed by the poet Gay. The man had sure a palate covered o'er With brass or steel that on the rocky shore First broke the oozy oyster's pearly coat And risked the living morsel down his throat.

Trying to Help.
Hotel Clerk (to rural guest closing front entrance)—"Hey, there! What are you trying to do? Uncle Eben—Don't get excited, young fellow! I jest thought, seeing as how I was prob'ly the last one in tonight, I'd do the right thing and lock the doors 'fore going to bed!"—Puck

Matter of Intelligence.
Mrs. Suburbs—John, did you call at the intelligence office today to inquire about a maid of all work? Suburbs—Yes, my dear. Mrs. Suburbs—Couldn't you find one? Suburbs—Oh, yes; I found a dozen, but they were all too intelligent to come out to this place.—Chicago News.

No Necessity.
Zerelda (at the candy parlor)—Where do we wash our hands? Myrtille—Oh, we don't have to do that. Putting the candy makes them beautifully white and clean.—Chicago Tribune

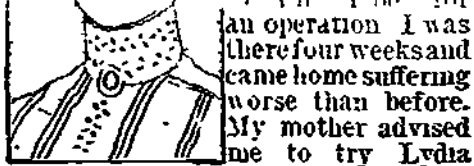

Make not thy friends too cheap to thee not yourself to thy friends.—Pulter.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.
"I am, Ma'am.—Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to the hospital for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 3, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

WHAT CURES ECZEMA?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of O. C. Wines Green as compounded in D. D. D. is relied upon. We could not make this statement to our patients for fear of our neighbors unless we were sure of it. At all houses, there are many cases of Eczema, and we have seen many unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Preparation.

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to the itching, chafing, burning, and all sorts of eruptions. Because—It cleanses the skin and heals the sores. Because—It enables Nature to repair the ravages of the disease. Because—The cures of ten years of complete cures of thousands of the most serious cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema cure. Drop into our store today, just to talk over your case with us. W. F. Hennings, Charleroi, Pa.

How to Cure Chronic Colds and Bronchitis

Bluevale, Ont., May 4, 1910.
"I was sick for two years with a chronic cold and bronchitis and a consequent run-down condition. I received no benefit from doctors, and had to give up work. VINOL was recommended and from the second bottle I commenced to improve. I gained in weight and strength, my cold and bronchial trouble disappeared, and I am at work again. I want to recommend VINOL to anyone who is in need of such a medicine."—THOMAS HIGGINS.
It is the combined action of the curative elements of the cods' livers aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL which makes it so successful in curing stubborn colds and bronchitis. VINOL is a combination of remedy for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and pulmonary troubles, not a palliative like cough syrups. Try a bottle of VINOL. If you don't think it helped you, we will return your money. Piper Bros., Druggists Charleroi, Pa.

"LOOK OUT FOR THE CARS"
DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that sign at a railroad crossing?
If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing?
Maybe you think, Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise."
Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."
Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world.
The Department Stores are a very good example when you continuously advertise—and they are continually doing a good business.
If it pays to run a few ads round about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.
It's just business, that's all, to

A Lucky Artist

Recently a price of $2,000 was offered to the artist contributing the best drawings of a comic feature for Sunday newspapers. As a result of the offer several thousand artists from every section of the United States, from Canada and from foreign lands across the sea contributed drawings. The judges gave a most scrupulous attention to every one. Slowly the mountain of submitted comic series diminished until there were but 100 drawings left. Fifty of these were rejected a week later. Later but six remained, any one of which would have made a desirable comic feature. At last two were put aside and finally Mr. Twee Deedle was chosen and the $2,000 was awarded John R. Gruelle of Norwich, Conn., whose prize comic, "Mr. Twee Deedle," will be the delight of mothers, cousins, aunts, sisters and children for several months.

Unlike many comic features, "Mr. Twee Deedle" is intended to teach a lesson to children of this county, and at the same time furnish them innocent amusement. Just funny enough to gain the attention and thereby directing their minds to better things. "Mr. Twee Deedle" has been added to the already high class comic section of The Pittsburgh Dispatch and with Kaptin Kiddo and four other splendid features will make The Dispatch comic the best in the world. See that your children are supplied with a clean comic feature when you get your Sunday paper. The publisher of The Dispatch endeavors to keep its comic section in keeping with the other features, making it the ideal paper for the homes where children should be given the very best. Grown ups, too will like "Mr. Twee Deedle" and will praise the judge for awarding the $2,000 to its originator. The first of "Mr. Twee Deedle" will appear in The Dispatch Sunday, February 19.
